The power of defence does not consist so much in your own strength of position, as in effecting a decided quick movement in that direction, in which your opponent has the least power of resistance, especially in defending against the Point, when the First, Third, and Fifth Guards are the most effective against the First and Third point; and the Second, Fouth, and Sixth Guards, against the Second point; provided the wrist is previously so placed, that the requisite Guards may be quickly executed. The two Parries must also be regulated by the position of the opponent s wrist, so that the bearing of your sword may tend to open his hand, and, if well judged and timely given, will disarm him; or so cripple his wrist, as to preclude even the capability of forming a defensive guard, or continuing the attack. If opposed to the small sword, have recourse to the cuts Three and Four, directing them at the arm, by which means there is every probability of the cuts taking effect, as it must always, in thrusting, come within range of the Edge, before the point can be sufficiently advanced to reach the body. If the above cuts are quickly given and continued, they will...
